remember the basketball games we won?

oh, all those detentions!!

weren't classes
fun this year?

it was here that we did our learning.

it was in the shops that the boys learned a trade.

we spent our noon hours here.

.. john a. dooley ..
principal

to the class of 1960:

you have, in my opinion, truly measured up to one of the best concepts of what ideal american high school students should be. you have been symbolic of a happy present and a promising future. a greater percentage of your class has exhibited a desire to seek a deep knowledge of the content of your studies than had any class with which i have been associated. the characteristic which has made your class outstanding was that you went beyond the stage of a mere desire to learn; you exerted the time, the effort and the initiative necessary to turn your desire into a reality.

my wish for you is that you will continue to exert time, effort and initiative to an ever deepening quality of learning; if you do, your promising future will also become a reality.

sincerely,

john a. dooley

editors'
message

you are the artists. you, with your paint brushes have blended the colors . . . colors that are memories now. just as there are dark colors, there were dark, sad moments. but, as every picture has bright colors, so your life is filled with many happy, glowing memories . . .

whether this is your first year or your last . . . whether you are creating memories or content to live with them . . . you have added your small bit of color to the great masterpiece of basic high. without you, it would not be complete.

soon you will leave this picture and enter another . . . the realm of life. there will be critics who will judge you on your past. we hope you will, with pride, display this . . .

never before in the history of our nation have the american people extended greater interest and positive concern to the problem of education.

the immediate challenge presented to our national survival by the problems of the space age has awakened universal anxiety for the quality of education being offered in our public schools. this anxiety is focused particularly on the technical, scientific and mathematics areas but is also not lost to the need for greater knowledge and improved language skills of our democracy.

the clark county board of education is exerting tremendous effort to respond to this demanded need for improved quality of education. new, modern school buildings and educational equipment are being provided at the maximum rate public funds will permit. teachers' salaries have been increased to hold and attract competent instructors. procedures are in practice for the early identification of students who possess high potential for learning. accelerated and enriched educational opportunities are being provided for these students as well as modified and special types of instruction for students afflicted with physical, emotional and mental handicaps. educational practices in basic high school reflect a strong adjustment to these demands for increased educational efficiency. as basic high school works to create the best methods and the best atmosphere for teaching, students at basic high are demonstrating an acceptance of the simple and unpalatable fact that in order to acquire knowledge; hard work, perseverance and the sacrifice of other pleasures are necessary.

class of '60 . . . it is time for you to place your brushes on their racks and leave this portrait of basic high.

it seems like only yesterday you entered its halls and learned its lessons . . . it was a perfect four years wasn't it? and it all passed by so quickly. congratulations, seniors, we'll never forget you!

We, the class of 1960, dedicate this book to the memory of three young boys . . . three boys who didn't have the chance to share with us the joys and happy times of our high school days. We have missed their smiles and laughter, their talents, and their endeavors to make our class great. To you Tommy Jones, Glen Cottam, and Wendell Bosse we give our warmest love . . . we'll always remember you.
